Boy found guilty of robbing teens

A 16-YEAR-OLD boy has been found guilty of robbing a group of teenagers who were camping in Haverhill for a birthday celebration.

The boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, had pleaded not guilty to three offences of robbery and one of attempted robbery.

Yesterday, he was found guilty of all the offences by a jury at Ipswich Crown Court. Judge John Devaux granted him conditional bail until he returns to court in early April to be sentenced.

During the trial, the court heard how a group of friends had been camping on Bulls Field, close to the Samuel Ward Upper School in Haverhill to celebrate a 15-year-old's birthday.

Giving evidence, one of the victims told how he woke up at about 3am on May 28 last year in darkness to find he was being attacked.

Members of the group were also punched, threatened with a broken bottle and told to remain on the ground and to hand over their mobile phones and iPods.

The jury heard from the victims how despite the almost total darkness they have been able to identify the 16-year-old robber from his voice, as they all knew him. He was one of a group of four youths involved in the incident and the court heard that no one else had appeared in court about it.

Prosecutor Karl Volz said that at one stage the robber had warned that he would "bottle" his victims if they failed to comply with the order to stay on the ground.

Two mobile phones and an iPod were stolen. Another boy refused to comply with the robber's orders and did not lose any property.

After being arrested and refusing the answer police questions, the 16-year-old was alleged to have telephoned the mother of one of the victims and after at first denying any

All the pupils at Coupals Primary School in Haverhill picked up a frying pan to join in the pancake race. It was held on the same day as the annual sponsored bounce, which is helps to raise money for school funds and New Foundations, a charity supporting medical provision in Africa.

Every class in the school took part in their one-minute bounce challenge on Tuesday, in which they aimed to bounce as many times as possible.

Police to up council tax

SUFFOLK Police has voted to increase its share of council tax bills by 3.75 per cent.

The county's police authority selected the rise instead of a tax freeze and one-off Government grant of £1.25m on Monday.

Suffolk's force is required to make savings of more than £7m in the financial year as part of a four-year programme of cuts to 2014/15 estimated at £17.7m.

An extra £1.55m will be raised by the tax increase in 2012/13 and the rise will allow officer numbers to increase to more than 1,200 in the coming years from their existing 1,167.

Chief Constable Simon Ash had warned authority members that a council tax freeze would cost the force at least £1.66m a year from 2013/14 which would leave officer numbers at fewer than 1,200 and put significant strains on operational capability and service quality.

The authority has agreed a revenue budget of £112.2m for policing Suffolk as well as its capital programme and savings plan. The latter includes making savings of £4.5m by collaborating with the Norfolk force.

Joanna Spicer, chairman of the Police Authority, said: "Throughout our debates, we have been mindful of the financial pressures facing Suffolk's council tax-payers and I know that today's decision for a small increase may disappoint some people.

"However, it is important to understand that we were facing a stark choice and we all agreed the importance of maintaining the long-term resilience of the constabulary and its capability to provide a good quality policing service."

Companies feeling the love after customer testimonials

THREE Haverhill businesses have been voted in the top five 'most loved' in their category in a national poll.

Marketing company thebestofhaverhill has been helping to spread the love for local businesses over the past two weeks as part of the "14 Days of Love" – a national campaign being run by thebestof franchise.

The campaign, now in its third year, aims to encourage people to "show some love" for businesses during the run up to Valentine's Day. Testimonials are posted on thebestof websites around the country in support of local businesses.

Based on the number of testimonials received, CXG Property Services was the second most loved letting agent in the country, for the second year running. CW Courier Services was officially the most loved courier service in the country, based on the number of testimonials received. Preview Property Services was named the most loved letting agent in the country, and Preview was also the most loved business in Haverhill.

CXG Property Services was the second most loved business in Haverhill and CW Courier Services the third.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, presented certificates to all three companies. She said: "It is obviously easier for some businesses to receive testimonials from their customers than for others. For this reason part of the campaign focuses on the most popular business categories and identifies the most loved businesses nationally within those categories. Again this year Haverhill did really well with three of our business members in the top five most loved businesses in their categories."

Good news for Genzyme staff in town...

JOBS at Genzyme's Haverhill site are safe despite the closure of the company's research and development centre in Cambridge.

The biotech giant, acquired by Sanofi-Aventis last year, announced this week that its Cambridge Science Park premises would close by the end of the year with the loss of 60 jobs.

A company spokesman said its Haverhill manufacturing site, which employs about 800 people, and another base in Oxford would remain open.

Genzyme, which pioneers drugs to treat rare diseases and produces others which improve life for kidney patients, has invested more than £60m in its Haverhill plant.

...while Peacocks workers celebrate

STAFF at Haverhill's Peacocks store have received welcome news that it will stay open this week as part of a sale of the company to Edinburgh Woollen Mill.

Peacocks called in administrators in January and Haverhill's Bon Marche store, which was part of the same group of companies, has already closed.

The new owners will keep 388 of the company's 612 stores open, safeguarding about 6,000 jobs. The remaining 224 stores will close with the loss of more than 3,000 jobs.

A spokesman for Peacocks confirmed that the company's Haverhill store would be staying open under the new ownership.

Businesses get peek at the next 20 years

BUSINESS representatives were the first to learn more about plans for Haverhill over the next two decades.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's Vision 2031, the new plan for the town, will be officially launched on March 2.

But guest speaker at the February meeting of the bestofhaverhill group, Dr Carol Rowntree, presented an overview of the council's strategy for the town.

Dr Rowntree, economic development officer with St Edmundsbury, said the initial consultation for Vision 2031 took place last year and identified a number of issues, which had been taken into account in preparing the revised document.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

While acknowledging the benefits of Haverhill's location, businesses expressed concern over transport links, particularly to Cambridge and Stansted. The lack of integration between jobs and housing, with employment in the town currently located in four industrial estates or business parks and the housing in separate areas, was also highlighted as an issue.

The road links from the north-west to south-east were very good but links across the town, from the south-west to north-east, were poor.

Large areas of housing in Haverhill do not have a natural focus point, an important factor in creating sustainable communities.

Easy access to schooling and the protection of our open spaces were other issues raised.

The draft Vision document which has been developed addresses the issues and aims to implement policies which will create a 21st century town based on a strong community with an attractive retail, leisure and employment offer and sustainable transport.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill, said: "We really appreciated the insight into the draft Vision 2031 before it is launched formally.

"I would encourage businesses to take part in the consultation process. This is an opportunity to have our say into how Haverhill develops. We can't complain about what is happening, or not happening in the town, if we don't take the time to get involved.

"After March 2 you can look at the proposals online and give your comments. The consultation period runs until April 30."

involvement, going on to say "I'd do it again if you want."

The victim said that while walking into Haverhill town centre to visit a fast food outlet he had seen the boy convicted of robbery with a number of other youths but not spoken to them.

Giving evidence, the 16-year-old admitted having been present on Bull Field but said he had been an innocent bystander rather than taking part in the robberies and attempted robbery.

He said that four witnesses who claimed to have been able to identify him from hearing his voice in the dark had been "mistaken". Accepting that he had thrown "one or two" punches during the incident, the boy told the court that he had not threatened to steal from any of the group or demanded they remain on the ground.

Get your bike marked for free

FREE cycle marking is on offer on Saturday morning to help adults and children to protect their bikes from theft.

Haverhill Police will be hosting the session in the foyer of the town's Tesco supermarket from 9.30am-11am and 2.30pm-4pm.

PC Simon Bourne said although a crime spike in the town last month seemed to have died down, residents were still urged to be vigilant about protecting their property. Bikes can be marked with the owner's postcode to discourage theft and increase their chances of getting them back if they are stolen.

Bikes should be kept out of sight and locked in a shed where possible and locked up when left by the owner, even if only for a few minutes.

Man in court appearance

A MAN accused of having a knife in a public place and false imprisonment has appeared at Crown Court.

Derek Bowering, 42, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court in connection with alleged incidents in Clare and Haverhill on January 31.

Bowering, of Abbots Road, Haverhill, indicated no pleas during the preliminary hearing and was remanded in custody by Judge David Goodin until his next court appearance on April 13 for a plea and case management hearing.

Ji-Sun, 3, on a mission for African kids

'I think we should share our food ... they are my friends'

THREE-year-old Ji-Sun Munro is living proof that it's never too soon to start raising money for charity.

The lively and well-travelled toddler has already made two visits to Gambia with her grandparents Rob and Janet Munro – and now she is helping them to launch their latest appeal to raise money to help equip a school.

Rob, who ran the Haverhill Football Academy for eight years, first met Ian Stapleton, founder of the Football Gambia charity, three years ago on a coaching course. He agreed to go to the West African country to give youngsters some football coaching and his wife Janet and granddaughter Ji-Sun, who they look after while her mother is working, went along too.

Ji-Sun attends the Little Wonders playgroup in Haverhill, and children there donated toys and stationery items which the Munros took to Gambia on their latest visit in January.

Ji-Sun said: "I don't know all their names, but they haven't got any food, so I think we should share our food and give some to them. They are my friends."

Rob, of Ruffles Road, Haverhill, said: "Janet did not even want to go at first, but we both saw the need there and have been working for the charity ever since. Last year we raised £2,500 and at the weekend we held a textathon which raised almost £300.

"Ji-Sun has had amazing experiences with the African children and she always has a lot to say. We hope not only to gain more exposure for this charity, but to show people that even kids as young as Ji-Sun have an understanding of poverty and have a lot to give.

"Ji-Sun needs help in raising lots of money for the children of Gambia. She would like as many children as possible to donate £1 each – this would go into making a school in Gambia a happy place to be."

Janet said: "They just have nothing, not even paper and pencils, but the children really want to learn.

"They walk six miles a day to get to a school which is just a shack with a leaking roof. We don't just give them money; we are trying to help them to help themselves. It is not just about football – the charity has people who help with farming and we are teaching them to sew so that they can make things and sell them. They are such lovely people and so appreciative of everything that you do for them. Ji-Sun loves it out there she is not fazed by anything."

Accountancy success adds up to a merger

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

TWO Suffolk accountancy practices are to merge next month to form a new company.

Paul Donno & Co and Jacobs Allen will form a new accountancy business on March 1, which will retain the trading name of Jacobs Allen.

The new business will operate from offices in both Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds and offer clients a wide range of business, financial and tax skills and technical expertise.

Paul Donno is a fellow of the Association of Accounting Technicians. He founded Paul Donno & Co in 1993. The business has grown significantly since then, serving clients across the region from its offices in Glemsford and Haverhill.

A specialist in Sage accountancy, payroll and CRM software solutions and accredited by Sage, it encourages clients to boost profits by making full use of technology to maximise their efficiency. Jacobs Allen was established in 1992.

Director Keith Senior, qualified as a chartered accountant and chartered tax adviser, specialising in tax with one of the top four accountancy firms in the UK, then ran a tax consultancy business before acquiring the Bury St Edmunds practice in 2006, providing tax planning and accountancy services to clients, both local and national.

Paul Donno said: "I am really excited about the merger and the huge potential it presents."

"Our core values are very similar – we focus on the client, take time to listen, find out what is going on in their business and understand their needs and objectives. It is only by doing this that we can add value through the advice and support we give.

"Our approach, using leading-edge technology and business development tools, combined with Jacobs Allen's high level technical expertise and rigorous systems and procedures, will deliver a killer combination and exciting times ahead."

Keith Senior said: "We have developed a close working relationship with Paul Donno & Co over the years. As registered auditors we have been able to offer independent help to some of their clients and we have worked with them to deliver some more advanced tax solutions."

The 20-strong team will be celebrating with clients and guests at an official leap-year launch event in the Apex, Bury St Edmunds on Wednesday, February 29. Local businesses are invited to the event, which starts at 5.30pm.

Anyone who would like to attend, should RSVP Sheila Burke or email ask@jacobsallen.co.uk.

Backlash over vandal gangs

Lack of street lighting blamed as thuggery increases

A MOTORIST who has lost his protected no-claims bonus because his cars have been vandalised so often says lack of street lighting is making the problem even worse.

Nigel Lewis, 53, has written to Suffolk County Council complaining about lack of lighting outside his home, which makes it impossible to identify members of "feral gangs" who he says are regularly damaging vehicles in the area.

Last weekend alone, he said the side of one neighbour's car was covered in blood and another had a dent which would cost £366 to put right.

Another car was recently walked across, causing dents to the roof and front of the vehicle, and the retired couple who own it cannot afford to pay the cost of around £900 to repair it.

Mr Lewis said: "I saw the piece

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

in the Weekly News about the police concerns that the street lights are being switched off at midnight, and I am sure it is making the problems we experience around here even worse. We get gangs coming through in the early hours.

"I phoned the police at about 1.25am on Saturday, because there were about eight youths out there, some wearing hoodies, and saying 'I'll get him'." The side of my neighbour's silver VW Golf was hit with force during the fight and was covered in blood. The police asked me if I could give a description, but all I could see was dark, shadowy figures because there is no street lighting."

Mr Lewis added: "In the car park near the Co-op there were nine cars vandalised in one night. Crime seems to be going up and I believe the lack of street lighting is having a detrimental effect on our insurance.

"It is just happened far too frequently. There seems to be a lot of feral gangs about, breaking off wing mirrors and smashing windows. They seem to consider themselves untouchable and the police don't seem to have the manpower to deal with them."

Suffolk County Council introduced its new intelligent lighting system across Suffolk last year, estimated to save about £500,000 a year on energy bills by switching off many lights between midnight and 5.30am.

The council says the flexible system allows lights to be switched back on if necessary and Haverhill resident Gary Byers got the light near his home switched back on last November, after the Weekly News highlighted safety concerns.

Members of the public can go to www.suffolk.gov.uk/street-lighting or contact Haverhill town council to raise concerns about street lighting.

Pitchside treat for business winners

TWO directors of a property company were invited to the recent West Ham v Nottingham Forest match in recognition of its success in 2011.

Directors of CXG Property in Haverhill, Robin Pilley and Elaine Grubb, received the treat after retaining their 'property sourcing' title and Elaine Grubb won Women's Property Manager of the year in national industry awards.

Elaine said: "I am not a big football fan but the West Ham vice chairman Karren Brady has been a big inspiration to me and shows how women can succeed in a male-dominated industry."

Chairman of West Ham, David Gold, said: "The West Ham board are great supporters of community-based small businesses, who like ourselves are well aware that during these difficult times it is even more important to provide excellent standards of both service and value for money. It was lovely to be able to participate and recognise CXG's achievements."

Owner of the business

Robin said: "It was a lovely day and very exciting that our company's achievements are continuing to be recognised. Praise is always welcome and more so when coming from a businessman like David Gold, who has played a huge part in transforming the club and driving them back into profit after inheriting losses running into millions of pounds. Having been a lifelong West Ham fan myself made the day even more enjoyable."

Broadcaster scraps arts centre date

BROADCASTER Andy Kershaw has called off a UK tour to promote his autobiography after copies of the book virtually sold out.

The remaining tour dates for The Adventures of Andy Kershaw, due to come to Haverhill Arts Centre on March 10, will be rescheduled for the autumn.

Publisher Random House have secured the rights for the paperback, audio and digital publication of Mr Kershaw's autobiography, No Off Switch, and it is now to become the focus of a major campaign throughout the autumn and into the run-up for Christmas 2012.

The decision has been taken to reschedule the rest of his tour to coincide with Random House's paperback launch.

In addition, the falling stocks of the hardback edition of No Off

Switch would possibly find Mr Kershaw on tour to promote a book of which was sold out and unavailable until the autumn.

Mr Kershaw apologised for having to reschedule the tour and said the dates he had done so far had been "huge fun".

He added: "I look forward to seeing everybody later in the year when the book will be even cheaper."

Collectors are urgently needed for Marie Curie

Sir, I am calling for local people to volunteer for Marie Curie Cancer Care's Great Daffodil Appeal this March and help make it a success. The appeal is Marie Curie's biggest fundraising campaign, which takes place each March. Volunteer collectors are out on the streets throughout the month asking people to wear a daffodil, in return for a donation, and support Marie Curie Nurses. Marie Curie Nurses, like me, provide free care for terminally ill people in their own homes. I see first hand what it means for patients to have the choice of where to spend their final days, surrounded by family and friends, which is why the Great Daffodil Appeal is so important. Donating your time to the appeal will help Marie Curie Nurses to provide more free care to people. Snarling dog left us traumatised

Sir, in response to the previous letters regarding whether dogs should be kept on leads in the East Town Park, I would like to pass comment myself.

I live just across the road from the park and would visit the park more often than I do if I had the peace of mind that dogs were on their leads. There have been too many occasions where myself and my two children have been walking or playing, keeping ourselves to ourselves, only to be accosted by dogs off of their leads. On one occasion, we were picking up conkers almost hidden from view when a dog ran up to us, teeth bared, jumping up at us and frankly terrifying us all only to be given a small "sorry" from the owners. My children are still traumatised from

Walkies went ahead in snow

Sir, I would like to say thank you to all who were concerned with keeping our pavements relatively safe to walk on during the recent snowy/icy conditions. They certainly got it right this time. Thanks to them my little dog didn't have to go without any of his normal long walks, although we took rather longer!

I'm glad to say in all those 10 or so days we saw no dogs off leads and indeed no cyclists on the pavements – so well done everyone.

Haverhill and District Local History Group

MINDFUL that members and guests alike are loath to venture out on cold dark winter evenings, the Haverhill and District Local History Group held their January meeting in the afternoon.

We made ourselves comfortable in the Arts Centre Studio and sat back for a fascinating Armchair Walk Round Bury St Edmunds, courtesy of Blue Badge Tourist Guide Brian Coley. And Brian, with more than 10 years' guiding experience under his belt, really brought the history of the town to life – surprising us with new facts about well-known landmarks, and revealing parts of the old town that were new to us.

And the speaker at our next meeting will be well worth leaving home for! Mike Wabe will be in authentic costume for his living history talk about Life in Medieval England from the point of view of a feudal peasant, a Sergeant Templar, a Knight Coroner and a monk.

The presentation will be illustrated with weapons and armour of the time, as well as everyday household items. Anyone who has ever heard Mike on Radio Suffolk, or attended recent U3A meetings, is unlikely ever to forget his exuberant and knowledgeable talk on Life and Death in a Victorian Gaol!

Please join us at Haverhill Arts Centre Studio at 7.30pm on Wednesday, February 29. Admission is free to members and £2 for visitors – refreshments are available.

Haverhill Townswomens Guild

THE January meeting of the guild took the form of an auction. Guild members brought along unwanted gifts and the chairman, Mrs Hampson, was the auctioneer. She coerced us successfully to buy items until everything was sold, making a profit of £75 towards guild funds.

Mrs Betty Jennings, our president, presented a certificate, badge and flowers to Mrs Renee Ager who has been a guild member for 50 years. What an achievement.

Future events include plans for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee which will be celebrated by a garden party at the home of Mrs Jan Loveday. It is suggested that members wear red, white and blue and wear hats which should be homemade. Entertainment will be provided by Mr Loveday, who is an accomplished pianist.

Federation Social Services evening is in July, the theme 19th Century Women. Haverhill has chosen Elizabeth Fry.

The Christmas meal at the Red Lion, Steeple Bumpstead, was much enjoyed by all and thanks were extended to Mrs Loveday and Mrs Warren for arranging it.

At the next guild meeting on February 28, speakers will be Mr and Mrs Beaven on French Chateaux and Gardens. New members and guests are always welcome. We meet at the West End Church Hall from 7.15pm-9.15pm on the fourth Tuesday of each month. Just come along to meetings or ring Mrs Hampson on 01440 714730.

Handover: grateful youngsters receive their cheque for £1,650, which will be used to buy new equipment. CP

Scouts and Guides bag a boost

NEW equipment for Scouts and Guides camping out has been funded by two councillors.

Haverhill Scout and Guide headquarters received a total of £1,650 from the locality grant budgets of Suffolk county councillors Tim Marks and Phillip French.

The cash will enable the Scout group to buy new kitchen equipment including an oven and hob range, microwave oven, water boiler, and kettle, as well as much needed new fold-up tables.

The two councillors visited the Colne Valley Road

headquarters to hand over the cash for the equipment, which will add to improvements made to the facilities at the HQ to allow its further use as a camping centre for Scouts and Guides.

Tribute paid to murdered vicar

A COUNCIL chairman has spoken of her sadness after the murder of her village's former vicar.

The Rev John Suddards, 59, was found with multiple stab wounds at his vicarage in Thornbury, Gloucestershire, last Tuesday morning.

A 43-year-old man has been arrested in connection with the murder and remains in custody.

Pat Slimming, of Great Yeldham Parish Council, kept in touch with Rev Suddards after he left the village and said she learned of his death last Wednesday morning.

She said: "He was my friend and it is a great loss. He always said that he would open his door to anyone and it was a risk he was prepared to take. I have very fond memories of him and so most of the people who had contact with him during his time here.

"He was a very good preacher, a very funny man with a wonderful sense of humour. He was very kind and he had an incisive intellect.

"While he was here, my husband was a church warden and we were both on the PCC. During that time we set a lay ministry, of which I was part, and were licensed to conduct services. He was very much at the fore of everything. Without his guidance we could not have done it; he was very much a pioneer."

Former barrister Rev Suddards had moved to Thornbury last July, after moving from Witham in Essex.

For a decade from 1993, Rev Suddards was rector of the five churches in the Upper Colne Benefice, including Great Yeldham.

As the murder investigation continues, Rev Suddards's family released a statement saying: "We are devastated with the news of John's untimely and shocking death, so we would appreciate being left in peace at this time while we struggle to come to terms with what has happened."

Detective Chief Insp Simon Crisp said: "We are determined to bring whoever is responsible for the reverend's death to justice, and have a team of officers working on this investigation around the clock.

"I would like to thank the people of Thornbury for their co-operation and support but would ask anyone who has not been in touch to contact us with their information."

Stabbed: the Rev John Suddards, who was found dead at his vicarage last week.

John Bridge OBE, chief executive of Cambridgeshire Chambers of Commerce, said: "With the national economy not showing signs of improving, it is vital that this region continues to grow."

"By teaming up with Forest Heath District Council and the Newmarket and District Chamber, we want to open up business opportunities and allow companies to take advantage and build success in new areas."

Chris Barker, champion for economic regeneration at Forest Heath District Council, said: "It is vital that this region continues to grow and this is a cost-effective opportunity for businesses to promote new products and services, generate leads and raise the company profile among the wider business community."

The event is taking place between 11am and 4pm. A 2x2m stand at the event costs £125 plus VAT for chamber members and £175 plus VAT for non-members.

Reward for lost console

A MOTHER is offering a reward in the hope that her heartbroken 7-year-old son might get back a games console he lost.

Dexter Pipe lost the red Nintendo 3DS games console and five games on Tuesday or Wednesday last week between Elmdon Place and Feltwell Place in Haverhill. Dexter, who attends Thurlow Primary School, received the console and games, worth about £300, for Christmas.

Mum Natalie Gitty is offering a £30 reward for their return of the items. She said: "It was when the snow was still on the ground. He had it in a little holdall which he thought was done up, but it must have fallen out. Because of the snow he did not hear it drop. He is heartbroken and if they did not want to come forward it could just be dropped in at the police station." Anyone who can help can phone 07932 705126.

On lookout for Lucky

A REWARD is being offered for the return of a much-loved pet cat missing for four months. Lucky, a four-year-old male black cat, has not been seen at his home in Stockley Close, Haverhill, since last October. Anyone with information is asked to call Jackie Watts on (01440) 706728 or 07715 308177.

Women hurt in violence at bar

Two men sentenced after bystanders suffer fractured wrist and head injury outside venue

TWO women were injured outside a bar in Haverhill after brawling men threw poles which left them injured, a court heard.

The pair were sitting in a seating area outside Bar Vu when Marek Tabak and Lukasz Zuk became involved in a violent fight with bar staff on June 18 last year.

Prosecutor Robert Sadd told Ipswich Crown Court how Zuk had become involved in an altercation with a member of the bar's door staff, swinging a punch at him which failed to connect. Zuk had then "charged" at door staff, picked up a plastic pole from a seating area and thrown it – and then did the same with a second pole.

In the resulting confusion Tabak had joined in, also throwing punches, but found himself attacked by onlookers. The two women sitting outside the bar were struck, Kerry Morlock suffering a fractured wrist while Sophie Thorne suffered a wound to her head as well as shock.

Tabak, 34, of Eden Road, Haverhill, admitted using threatening words and behaviour and he was sentenced by judge Rupert Overbury to eight months' imprisonment suspended for 12 months, ordered to complete 120 hours of unpaid community work and pay £250 each to Miss Mortlock and Miss Thorne in compensation.

Zuk, 27, also of Eden Road, admitted affray, was made the subject of a 12-month conditional discharge and had to pay £85 prosecution costs.

Joanne Eley, mitigating, said that Zuk had expressed remorse for his actions and accepted that he had gone too far after witnessing what he believed was some animosity between Tabak and a doorman.

Miss Eley said: "He has taken steps himself to reduce his alcohol intake. He does accept that is the problem."

Judge Rupert Overbury, who viewed CCTV images of the incident, told Tabak and Zuk: "Both of you were staggering around the streets. Plainly the consumption of alcohol affected your judgement."

"Drunken violent behaviour in a town centre where other members of the public are present has to be deterred by the courts to protect other members of the public from the sort of injuries that may be caused by people who are drunk and aggressive."

Judge Overbury told Tabak, who had been attacked by onlookers: "It may be said that you got your just desserts because you were set upon by a number of people."

Supper and auction is bid to raise funds for marathon man

TICKETS are still available for a fish and chip supper and auction, which is part of a fundraising campaign in memory of man who died from cancer.

Rioch O'Gorman is running the London Marathon in memory of his childhood friend Benjamin Clay and for Ben's favourite charity, the Teenage Cancer Trust.

He needs to raise £2,000 to compete and Ben's mother Yvonne Clay, of Steeple Bumpstead, has organised a supper and dance in the village on Saturday, March 3.

The event will take place at Steeple Bumpstead Village Hall at 7pm for 7.30pm, with a supper of cod, scampi or chicken and chips from Chippy's, Haverhill.

Tea and coffee will be available and people can bring their own drink and glasses. Live music will be provided by Ian Argent Ash Beetson and Friends Band. There will also be an auction, raffle and tombola. Tickets are £10 and to book, contact yvonne-clay@hotmail.co.uk.

Man escapes house blaze

A MAN was treated by paramedics after escaping from a fire at his Haverhill home last night. Fire fighters were called to a blaze at Exeter Court just before 6pm. They arrived to discover the flames were out but the property was in a heavily smoke-logged condition. The occupant had got out of the house before crews arrived at the scene and was left in the care of the ambulance service.

New plea to finish path that leads to nowhere

RAMBLERS are making fresh calls for a public right of way to complete a footpath which currently stops abruptly.

They want see a small but strategic gap filled in a footpath network at Chilton Street, Clare.

A public footpath, called Footpath No 1, runs between Hutton and Poslingford and another path, Footpath No 14, runs northwards from Chilton Street.

The second path stops in the middle of nowhere, 200 yards short of the first so that walkers have to turn back and retrace their steps. If the paths connected, it would mean that walkers could stay off the B1063 – currently the only means of walking from Chilton Street to Poslingford or Hutton and back – and use attractive field paths instead.

Norman Jennings, a local ramblers, said: 'The B1063 is hellishly dangerous. There's constant fast-moving traffic, no pavement and no verges, yet that's where you have to walk.'

'Footpath 14 runs parallel to the road and connecting the two paths is the obvious solution.'

'The county council has powers to create a footpath link but they're reluctant to use them.'

Nicky Philpott, ramblers

director of policy and campaigns, confirmed that county and district councils have powers to create footpaths and other rights of way where needed.

'They have to be satisfied that a new path would add to the convenience of people who live in the area, or to the convenience and enjoyment of a substantial section of the public.'

'Both criteria are clearly met here, as the path would be a convenient link which would save people from walking on a dangerous road, benefiting walkers and motorists alike.'

'Walking is a healthy recreation free to all and it's in line with government policy to encourage people to walk for local journeys, too. But dangerous roads rule it out.'

Mr Jennings, who has the support of Clare and Poslingford parish councils, points out that filling the gap would enable a whole lot of paths to be accessed in safety.

He said: 'If the council care about the safety of walkers and motorists and about getting people out of their cars, they will surely make the necessary order.'

A St Edmundsbury Borough Council spokesperson said that the parish councils could approach the council to investigate if the path creation was possible.

Enjoy chips your way this Chip Week

Chunky, skinny, curly or crinkly - which chip are you? New research commissioned for Chip Week 2012 (20-26 February) maps the nation's favourite chip and condiment combinations.

The survey showed that fans of wedges are most likely to dip them in barbecue sauce, and ketchup is most popular with those who prefer oven chips and French fries. Salt and vinegar was voted the most popular chip topping of all, confirming Brits' love affair with chips.

Whatever your favourite chip and whichever condiment you prefer, we have the ultimate guide to Chip Week 2012 at www.chips.lovepotatoes.co.uk. Log on to get the latest chip related news, fun facts, a guide to events in your local chippy and a new series of delicious recipes to help you cook amazing chips at home.

Chip Week is a chance to celebrate our nation's favourite dish, which starts with the perfect potato produced by dedicated potato growers around the country - follow the story from field to fork. This annual event is run by Potato Council, a division of the Agriculture and Horticulture Development Board (www.ahdb.org.uk). Think you know everything about chips? Check out the top ten, mind blowing chip facts:

1. A quarter of all potatoes grown in Britain are made into chips - that's around 1.5 million tonnes each year, or nearly the same weight as 125,000 full double decker buses

2. The record number of chip portions sold in a fish & chip shop in one day was 4,000

3. The chips eaten in Great Britain each year come from potatoes weighing the equivalent of nearly 2.9 million Formula 1 cars. Laid end to end, those chips would take you around Silverstone Grand Prix Circuit over 1.5 million times - equivalent to more than 26,000 British Grand Prix's

4. Chris Verschueren, from Kastel, Belgium holds the world record for the longest French Fries cooking marathon. He cooked for 83 hours, serving 15,000 portions of chips

5. A recent survey confirmed that 87% of the population love chips!

6. Lady Gaga recently made a late night stop with her tour bus for fish and chips in Marylebone, London. The bus wasn't able to fit outside the chippy so her security team went to pick up the takeaway whilst they found a suitable parking spot

7. We eat 300 million portions of fish and chips in Britain each year

8. During the D-Day landings, the Parachute Regiment landing behind enemy lines in darkness identified friend from foe by using the code word "FISH" and the reply would be "CHIPS"

9. The world's largest fish and chip portion was made in July 2011 at the Wensleydale Heifer pub. The fish weighed in at 20kg and the chips 23.5kg, breaking the previous Guinness World Record which was held by a restaurant in America

10. Friday is the most popular day of the week for eating chips, with around a fifth of the chips eaten then.

Councils name new joint boss

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A NEW chief executive has been appointed on a salary of £105,000 to take the helm at two local councils.

Ian Gallin was approved for the new post of joint chief executive for Forest Heath District Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council by both authorities at separate meetings last Wednesday.

Mr Gallin, who used to work at Plymouth City Council, said: "I am delighted about my new appointment and am really looking forward to the challenge. It's a great opportunity to work with two councils with such clear ambitions and determination."

The joint position was created following a decision taken by both councils in October to merge their senior management teams in a move expected to save the two authorities £2.3m.

David Burnip, the outgoing chief executive at Forest Heath, and Geoff Rivers, his counterpart Appointed: new chief Ian Gallin.

at St Edmundsbury, decided not to apply for the new post.

Cllr James Waters, leader of Forest Heath, said: "This is going to be a hugely challenging job and I am confident we have a strong chief executive to work with the strong political leadership we have here in West Suffolk."

"Ian brings with him a wealth of experience which will help not only to drive shared services forward, but will also give us a firm business focus and put us in the position of working with other partners beyond the boundaries of Suffolk."

Cllr John Griffiths, leader at St Edmundsbury, said: "We unanimously selected Ian from a very strong field of candidates and I am delighted that both councils have now endorsed his appointment."

"I believe he has exactly the right skills, the drive and enthusiasm to help take Forest Heath and St Edmundsbury forward in the challenging but exciting times ahead for West Suffolk and the people we serve here."

The two leaders praised the outgoing chief executives, who they said were demonstrating great professionalism in a difficult period.

The council leaders said: "Both chief executives have served and are continuing to serve their councils with a tremendously high degree of professionalism during a very challenging time and we thank them for their support."

Mr Gallin will take up the post at a later date.

Pampering session with a difference for women

Looking good: Louise Drinkwater applies some blusher.

Picture: Duncan Lamont 801871

As if being diagnosed with cancer wasn't devastating enough, the side-effects of treatment – which can dramatically change your appearance – can be shattering. But help is at hand for women in Cambridge who want to look good – and feel better. Emma Higginbotham reports.

IT'S not difficult to find the Look Good... Feel Better skincare and make-up workshop.

A babble of happy chatter leads me straight to 12 ladies sitting around a table, busily dipping into gift bags bulging with beauty products, and trying on lipsticks, blushers and concealers.

But this is no ordinary pampering session. We're at the Cambridge Cancer Help Centre in Great Shelford, and the ladies are being taught specifically how to deal with the visible side-effects of their cancer treatment.

"The best thing about it is the smiles on everybody's faces when they leave," says Sheila Bearman, regional co-ordinator for Look Good... Feel Better (LGFB).

"Sometimes they're very nervous coming in, because they don't know what to expect. But by the time they leave, even the people who were nervous are happy and laughing.

It's just really worthwhile."

LGFB, the beauty industry's charity, has been running these workshops nationwide since 1994. The reason is simple: they know that finding out you have cancer is daunting and life-changing in itself, but dealing with the way your appearance can change as a result of your treatment can have serious consequences on your self-esteem – at precisely the time when having a positive attitude is so vital.

All the sessions follow the same format: up to 12 ladies are given a cosmetic 'tool kit' (a gift bag brimming with products donated by top cosmetic and toiletry companies), then a team of volunteer beauty consultants begin to work their magic: "And it does exactly what it says: if you look good, you feel better," says Sheila.

"Women face all sorts of problems as a result of their treatment, everything from dry skin to losing their eyebrows and eyelashes.

"One of the main things we do is show them how to make it look as though they have eyelashes: if you look at somebody straight on, you don't actually see great big long lashes, you see dark around the eyes," she explains. "You can create that look with eyeliner, and it really does give the appearance of having eyelashes."

The ladies are also shown how to measure where their eyebrows would be: "and then when you frame the eyes with eyebrows, using feathered strokes with eyeliner, it actually completes the face."

High colour is another problem caused by cancer treatments "so we have a product they can put on, and we show them how to take down that redness as well", says Sheila.

"We do all sorts of things, really, and the ladies always seem so happy that they look like everyone else. It really does make them feel better about themselves."

Louise Drinkwater, from Huntingdon, first heard about LGFB through Hinchbrook Hospital, where she had her chemotherapy. "It's taken me a little while to be well enough to come," she says, "but it's been nice to try different things with the make-up – and try and find what I used to look like, pre-cancer."

The 37-year-old was diagnosed with inflammatory breast cancer – the rarest and most aggressive strain of the disease – in June last year.

"A mass appeared in my breast in the space of a few days, and felt very warm to the touch.

"It was like mastitis, which is what it's always misdiagnosed as, and I was no different: I went to my GP with discharge from my nipple and a rash, but unfortunately I wasn't referred at that point; I was put on antibiotics for an infection."

It took two more visits to her GP before she was finally referred to a consultant "and then I was diagnosed on a visual examination".

It transpired that Louise had a nine by eight centimetre tumour in her breast, and she had to endure four months of chemotherapy treatment which was, she says, "gruelling".

"I've got two young children – they're 4 and 7 – so that was a very tough summer," she adds.

A full mastectomy and lymph node clearance followed, and Louise has only just finished three weeks of radiotherapy: "So I'm very tired and very sore. But it's important to just carry on. You've got to get on with it, knowing that it gets better."

Does she ever think 'why me'? "I've been through that a million times, but then you think well, why not me? It happens. There are people an awful lot younger than me who have got awful cancers; there's a lady here today who's lost her eye. So actually I do count myself fortunate in some ways."

And, she adds, she'd highly recommend the LGFB workshops. "Come and give it a go – it gives you something else to think about for an afternoon," she says.

"Breast cancer tends to rob you of everything you are as a female. You lose your breasts, you have to deal with losing your hair very quickly, and not just your hair, your eyebrows and eyelashes.

"But it does get better. You have to try and find something in it to laugh at, I think, so I try and laugh a lot. You get one life, so you have to live it, don't you?"

For Raylene Armstrong, the workshop has been a real tonic. "Sometimes you get so tied up in the medical side that you neglect yourself a little bit, so it helps the whole positivity side of things," she says. "How often do you spend a couple of hours of 'you time'?"

Raylene, who's also 37, was diagnosed with breast cancer last August. "I do check myself quite regularly, but when I found a lump I kind of put it to the back of my mind."

"Then I watched a programme on BBC3 about a teenage boy who had cancer, and afterwards I said to my husband 'I think I found a lump; I know it's nothing...' and he said 'you must go and make an appointment'."

Within a month of visiting her GP and being diagnosed, Raylene – a mum-of-one from Cambridge – began her chemotherapy. "It was hideous. I know everyone's experience is different, but mine was awful," she said.

"But the real positive is it killed the cancer, so for me it was a small price to pay for getting rid of it."

Raylene finished her chemotherapy in December and is waiting to have radiotherapy, so events like the LGFB workshops are, she says, a welcome relief. "Your appearance changes quite a bit: through the chemo I lost my eyebrows, my hair and my eyelashes, so it's nice to have some well-being time, really. My face has never had so much attention!"

And, she adds, the workshops are more fun than she was expecting. "The atmosphere's really friendly; it's set up to be almost be like a dinner party, with everyone chatting and moving around the room so you get to know different people. We've all been sharing stories and geeing each other up, really."

"I'd definitely recommend it," she adds. "It's really good to be kind to yourself, especially when you're going through the medical treatment."

"This is a chance to focus on you, to give yourself a little boost, to meet friendly faces and have a bit of pampering. Who wouldn't want that?"

■ The Cambridge LGFB workshops are held fortnightly at the Cambridge Cancer Help Centre, which is based in the grounds of Scotsdale's Garden Centre, 120 Cambridge Road, Great Shelford. For more information call (01223) 840105 or visit www.lookgoodfeelbetter.co.uk

Owl's about that!

Fun for kids: Blunderbus Theatre performers in action at Haverhill Arts Centre.

Picture: Keith Jones 805110.

CHILDREN had a hoot as they met a baby barn owl who is afraid of the dark at a half-term show at Haverhill Arts Centre.

Youngsters aged between 3 and 7 went along to join Plop, the baby barn owl, for an afternoon of live music, puppetry and story-telling.

The specially-written show staged by Blunderbus Theatre was adapted from the classic children's book by Jill Tomlinson.

The audience followed the adventures of Plop as he journeyed into a night time world of campfires, fireworks, starry nights and moonlit adventures.

Allowances and council tax frozen

SUFFOLK county councillors have voted to freeze members' allowances and the authority's share of council tax for the coming year.

The measures were approved as part of the council's 2012/13 budget, which will see the authority make savings of £26m in the next financial year.

The move on allowances, added as an amendment to the proposal, is expected to save the council £56,000 and is in line with the two-year pay freeze in place for staff at Suffolk County Council.

Savings of £12m will be made through improving efficiency and removing processes while £8m will be cut from the council's adult care services.

Cllr Mark Bee, leader of the council, said: "I've made it very clear that what I want to see is the creation of a budget that saves money on back-office and bureaucracy, protects, as much as possible, front-line services and keeps council tax down."

"I'm pleased that despite the financial circumstances we are facing, the budget we've agreed meets these expectations while at the same time makes it possible to invest some of our capital budget in major projects."

"What's important now is for the council to continue working in partnership and finding workable solutions to the financial challenges we face.

"I will continue to challenge the council to do everything it can to deliver the best for people in Suffolk."

Approval of the budget followed a consultation exercise involving Suffolk residents and others. Another £24m of savings will be made at county level in 2013/14 in response to a 28 per cent cut in the authority's Government funding and other factors.

Cllr Jane Storey, deputy leader and portfolio holder for resource management and transformation at the council, said: "How we spend public money is one of the biggest and most important decisions we have to make in local government."

"The feedback we've had from Suffolk people this year has been hugely influential in shaping our approach to tackling the financial challenges we're facing."

"Strong financial management has always been a political priority for this administration and I believe we're in a position to move forward and make the most of the resources we have available to us."

Every little helps for fire crisis team

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A NEW team set up to assist in emergency situations has been given a helping hand from a Haverhill supermarket – and more volunteers are needed.

The new Fire Emergency Support Service (FESS) in Haverhill has received a donation of a trolley full of groceries from the local branch of Tesco.

The items can be used in emergency situations and will help the Red Cross team prepare for action.

The team will work in partnership with Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service, who will call them out to support people dealing with house fires, flooding or other crises. The service is operated by well-trained volunteers, and the charity is on the lookout for people in the area with some time to spare who are interested in joining the team.

Volunteers arrive at the scene of an emergency with a specially-equipped vehicle, with washing facilities, toilet, food and drink provision, spare clothes, blankets, hygiene packs, first aid supplies and even children's toys.

They provide a comfortable space where people dealing with sudden crises like house fires can take shelter and come to terms with the situation.

The team are also trained in compassionate support and can offer reassurance, as well as advice on practical issues such as insurance claims and temporary accommodation.

The service is already provided in Suffolk by a team based in Felixstowe, but the new Haverhill team will cover the west of the county and parts of Cambridgeshire to ensure a quicker response.

Tesco community champion Claire Bowden said: "Tesco Haverhill is delighted to be involved and donate to this new service from the Red Cross. It will benefit the people in and around our community when most in need and we hope to continue to support the Red Cross in the future."

Suffolk FESS co-ordinator Jo Patterson said: "It's great to be developing a new FESS service in Haverhill."

"This gives us an opportunity to help even more people coping with emergencies, and the kind donation of food and supplies by Tesco will be hugely appreciated by the people we support, as well as hardworking fire fighters."

"We need people who are interested in using their spare time to help people who are dealing with crisis. If you are compassionate, patient and tactful and are reasonably fit and healthy, you could join us and make a big difference to people in difficult times."

Anyone is interested in learning more about volunteering for the Red Cross FESS service in Haverhill should contact Jo Patterson on 01473 219260 or email jpatterson@redcross.org.uk.

Magic kingdom beckons

Kate Sagovsky, director of the Marlowe Society's latest production, tells JENNIFER SHELTON about her vision for Shakespeare's most magical play

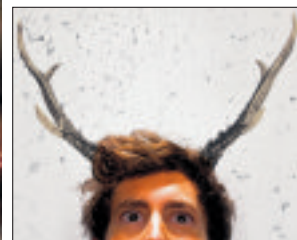

MISCHIEVOUS fairies, runaway lovers, a man with the head of a donkey – and not a brooding monologue in sight: it's no wonder A Midsummer Night's Dream remains one of Shakespeare's most-performed, most-taught, most accessible plays.

That's the view shared by Kate Sagovsky, director of a new adaptation by the Marlowe Society, showing at Cambridge Arts Theatre this week.

Time for a quick plot summary: Hermia and Lysander are in love, but forbidden to marry so they flee into the woods. Helena loves Demetrius, but Demetrius isn't interested. They also head for the woods. Meanwhile, king and queen of the fairies, Oberon and Titania, are quarrelling – enter Robin Goodfellow (or Puck), who proceeds to wreak havoc by administering love potion to all the wrong people. At the same time, a band of incompetent actors, including the enthusiastic Bottom, attempt to put on a play.

"There are two things about it," says Kate, when asked what makes it so enduring.

"First, there's the element of magic and imagination, which is really the essence of theatre. And the other thing is the relationship between the main characters. They're people that we recognise, and that's where the humour comes from, because we can see ourselves in these people. Working on this production you really notice how human these characters are, and I'm hoping that'll come across."

So who does she empathise with most? "I think Helena is an amazing character because she's so steadfast in her love for Demetrius, hoping against hope that something will happen. Working in theatre, that can often happen too! I think she's a really strong character but she's not always seen that way. Then Puck's so much fun but also slightly an outsider. He makes me laugh but also pulls at my heartstrings."

Artistic director at Freefall Theatre, Cambridge-born Kate was delighted to be called on to direct the Marlowe's latest project.

"The Marlowe Society (one of Cambridge University's oldest societies which has turned out such names as Sir Ian McKellen, Derek Jacobi and Trevor Nunn) has this great thing where once a year they put on a play at the Arts Theatre and get in a professional director and designer and things to give the students some professional experience.

"It's quite funny too because I did work experience at the Arts Theatre education department during my gap year – all the first things I ever did were in Cambridge. I went to the King Slocombe School of Dance in the centre of town and I've done panto at the Corn Exchange – so it's really funny to be back!

"I've been sending emails out to my old teachers and thanking them for all the help they've given me in getting here, and some of them are going to be coming along. It makes me feel very adult!"

Having discovered Shakespeare at an early age, Kate – who has also been involved in the education programme at the RSC Movies department – is also keen to get as many young people as possible along to see the show.

"I think it's so important for kids to see it done on stage," she explains.

"I certainly felt very grateful for the education I got when I was growing up in Cambridge, and I have a really strong desire to make Shakespeare as fun and as accessible as possible for young people and students, as well as people who would normally come to the theatre. A Midsummer Night's Dream is perfect for that. We're using mask work for the animals, and it's got a newly-written, modern soundtrack which was done by a student. We've got quite a lot of schools already booked in for the schools' matinees, and we've been doing some education training days where the actors go out and work with young people in schools. Adults are sometimes surprised how much of Shakespeare children can grasp."

While most people's introduction to the bard comes with studying it for school, Kate saw her first Shakespeare aged 8 when she was taken to see Kenneth Brannagh's Much Ado About Nothing on the big screen.

"My mum dragged us to the cinema," she laughs, "and I totally fell in love with it! My parents picked up on that and took me to Stratford to see The Taming of the Shrew (since she has the same name as the protagonist, of course), and apparently I came out and said: 'but who tells them all what to do?' and my mum said: 'there's a person called a director' – and so I told them that's what I was going to be."

"The more I delve into Shakespeare, the more I can't get my head around the depth and breadth of it," Kate concludes.

"I've done quite a bit of Shakespeare in the last few months and just one play can fascinate you for months at a time in rehearsals, and he did so many... there is so much cliché around 'Shakespeare the genius', but I can honestly say I've never come across any other literary figure like him. I don't think it's fiction that we've created that myth around him. When you delve into his plays it's mind-blowing."

Seabright Productions present An Instant for Kindness on Saturday at 8pm. This is the moving, bittersweet tale of Chris Lerner, who accompanied his chronically ill ex-wife to Switzerland's Dignitas clinic. He came home with an empty wheelchair and a story to tell. This show reflects on the circumstances, morality and humanity surrounding the journey through a candid, poignant and sometimes comic performance.

Private Resistance on Wednesday, February 29 at 8pm is the latest theatre production from Eastern Angles. This emotional wartime drama focuses on the lives of one East Anglian family and how Britain would have coped with an enemy invasion.

Magic will perform all of Queen's greatest hits plus some you may not have heard for a while in their latest show, Magic, A Kind of Queen on Friday, March 2 at 8pm. Completely live, with five vocals to back up the powerful lead vocal of the dynamic Roger Brown, Magic recreate all the complex harmonies that are Queen's trademark sound. WIN tickets to The Artist

THE Artist swept the boards at this month's British Academy Film Awards, picking up seven gongs – and now Haverhill audiences can see what all the fuss is about as the movie is showing at the town's Cineworld.

The movie, which is also nominated for 10 Oscars, is one of the year's most original films – a charming tale of two actors set during the silent movie era.

And the Weekly News has teamed up with Cineworld to offer readers the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to see The Artist in Haverhill (for times, see listings below).

It's 1927, and suave, moustachioed matinee idol George Valentin (Jean Dujardin) is one of the biggest stars in Hollywood. He's dashing, just a little arrogant, and his romantic swashbucklers have women swooning.

But silent movies are about to be washed away by new-fangled talkies. When studio boss Zimmer (John Goodman) offers him a chance to steal a march on his rivals in this exciting new format, Valentin rejects it out of hand in favour of his own epic silent project.

Alas, this proves to be a flop. But as Valentin's life falls apart and his star wanes, the young actress whose career he nurtured, Peppy Miller (Berenice Bejo), finds hers in the ascendant. A heartfelt love letter to Hollywood's silent era, writer/director Michel Hazanavicius's lovely film is even filmed in black and white without dialogue!

To be in with a chance of winning one of five pairs of tickets, answer the following question:

How many awards did The Artist win at this year's 65th British Academy Film Awards?

- A) 6
B) 7
C) 8

To enter, send your answer with your name, address and a daytime contact number to Haverhill Weekly News, 4 Queen Street, Haverhill, Suffolk, CB9 9EF or email editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk. Closing date is Wednesday, February 29. Usual Cambridge Newspapers terms and conditions apply.

Silver service from top band

THE almost-full arts centre was yet again treated to another varied programme of entertaining music from the Haverhill Silver Band. On this occasion, they shared the stage with the very talented brass quintet, Tube. The band opened with The French Military March, by Saint-Saens. They gave a very lively performance, despite one of two slightly scruffy moments. The audience was not to be disappointed as they were presented with a variety of music throughout the while concert, ranging from the beautifully lyrical to more lively playing, full of vitality and control. Many of the band produced beautiful solos, particularly a quartet in The Irish Blessing. The rest of the first half was taken up by Tube, a very talented quintet from the Haverhill and Cambridge area, with a suite of pieces entitled The Golden Section, by Jim Parker.

Their offering at the start of the second half featured music more familiar to the audience and was greeted with great enthusiasm. A wonderful arrangement of Amazing Grace began with a trumpet solo featuring Tim Pannell, before he was joined by the full quintet in a stunning performance.

This was followed by A Nightingale Sang In Berkeley Square and Tuba Tiger Rag, featuring Paul Farr. The rest of the evening was given over to the Haverhill Silver Band, under the direction of conductor Mark Ager. In Strike Up The Band we were able to realise their fine percussion section and throughout the evening their attention to detail was apparent. Now the band is preparing for competition, where they fill face the big names from the brass world. They will know that Haverhill is proud to have a band that is probably the best in the region.

The big film

THE BEST EXOTIC MARIGOLD HOTEL certificate 12A, 123m

ADAPTED from Deborah Moggach's novel These Foolish Things, The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel is a hilarious and touching comedy about growing old disgracefully.

Ol Parker's warm and witty script provides the predominantly British cast with moments to shine and tug our heartstrings while director John Madden captures a different side to life in modern India than the poverty and crime of Slumdog Millionaire.

Evelyn Dame (Dame Judi Dench) has recently lost her husband and is coming to terms with solitude in her twilight years. Determined to start anew, she abandons Britain for the balmy climes of Jaipur and a grand retirement home called The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel.

En route Evelyn meets six other retirees all bound for this "luxury development for residents in their golden years" - cantankerous wheelchair-user Muriel (Dame Maggie Smith) who is bypassing the NHS waiting list to undergo a hip replacement abroad, wispish snob Jean (Penelope Wilton) and her long-suffering husband Douglas (Bill Nighy), retired judge Graham (Tom Wilkinson), incorrigible ladies' man Norman (Ronald Pickup) and love-hungry spinster Madge (Celia Imrie). When the exhausted travellers arrive at their destination they discover a building in disrepair and inexperienced manager Sonny (Dev Patel) struggling to keep the creditors off his back.

The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel is a delight, milking laughter and tears as characters reach crossroads in their lives. Like The King's Speech, it's a film with appeal across the generations, tapping into universal fears of being forgotten in old age. Performances are an embarrassment of riches. Dame Maggie is in imperious form as a xenophobic working class battleaxe, who shuns Indian food in favour of packets of chocolate biscuits because "I don't eat anything I can't pronounce".

Dame Judi Dench is the emotional heart, narrating drolly in voiceover while Wilkinson delivers a beautifully nuanced performance as a man with heartbreaking ties to India.

Wilton is excellent as the well-to-do wife who constantly belittles her husband, telling him: "When I want your opinion I'll give it to you," while Imrie and Pickup are delicious comic relief.

WOOD GREEN
The Animals Charity

Founded over 80 years ago, Wood Green, The Animals Charity has grown to become one of the leading animal welfare organisations in the UK.

Registered Charity No. 298348.

Flying the floral flag

THE landmark events of 2012 – namely the Queen's 60-year reign, followed by the Olympics – are set to prompt patriotic gardeners to fly the flag for Britain this year in the form of red, white and blue designs in their beds, borders and containers.

Blue and white lobelia, red salvias and geraniums and other bedding favourites could be the mainstay for many borders. The challenge will be getting these colours in the garden in time for the jubilee celebrations in the first week of June.

The Royal Horticultural Society (RHS) has just launched an advisory page on its website (www.rhs.org.uk) providing advice and suggestions to gardeners wanting to go for red, white and blue planting schemes, bringing together a selection of suitable plants that will go well together.

"Unfortunately, June is not the best time to have masses of colour from plants grown from seeds," says Jenny Bowden, RHS advisor. "But we have come up with some great suggestions that are relatively easy to grow."

"We know how important these two

by Hannah Stephenson

wonderful events are to people and we just thought that some patriotic planting would help in the celebrations."

The secret will be to buy partially grown plug and mini-plants such as white verbenas, lobelias and Nemesia 'Wisley Vanilla', red pelargoniums (geraniums) and blue Lobelia 'Panthera Cobalt' to put in containers and hanging baskets. These plants will have to be purchased as early as possible. Plant centres are likely to have supplies from April.

"Although it will be necessary to get the plants into containers and hanging baskets as soon as possible, gardeners also need to ensure that they are kept in sunny, frost-free conditions until the threat of frost has passed. A temperature of 15C (59F) is ideal," says Bowden.

Themed selections for June flowering include Petunia grandiflora 'Jubilee Mixed', from Suttons (www.suttons.co.uk). Compact in habit and reaching a height of 25-30cm (10-12in), they should be sent out as young plants in late April.

Another Suttons celebratory package includes Calibrachoa Superbells 'Red Devil', Lobelia 'Panthera Cobalt' and Verbena 'Superbena White', which should perform all summer in baskets or containers. Young plants will be sent out in May.

Verbena 'Union Jack' collection is being offered by Vernon Geranium Nursery (www.geraniumsuk.com). With delivery at the end of April, there should be time for plants to settle in and start flowering for June.

DT Brown (www.dtbrownseeds.co.uk) is offering a patriotic blend of young highly scented red, white and blue sweet pea plants, which should be delivered in late March and, once hardened off, can be planted in their permanent positions.

As the Olympics and Paralympics are being run during the end of July, August and early September, gardeners will have enough time to grow plants from seeds for these celebrations.

The RHS suggests growing red, white and blue sweet peas, red-flowered Salvia splendens, Nicotiana (tobacco plant) in red and white, and blue flowers such as ageratum or Salvia farinacea 'Victoria'.

However, if the thought of a red, white and blue border stirs up images of old-fashioned planting schemes often seen in parks or on roundabouts, vertical displays may provide a more contemporary feel.

Consider planting a wall of blue, white and red with verbenas, ivy-leaved pelargoniums, lobelias and begonias.

RHS Garden Harlow Carr, in North Yorkshire, is extending the theme to vegetables by planting red ('Highland Burgundy Red'), blue ('Purple Majesty') and white ('Elisabeth') potatoes, while all four RHS gardens will be featuring planting displays to celebrate both the Queen's Diamond Jubilee and the London Olympics.

Other patriotic veg might include the purple/blue variety of carrots, 'Purple Haze', white cauliflower 'Avalanche', runner bean 'Painted Lady' which produces red and white flowers and rainbow chard, for its colourful red stems.

Flying the flag opens up so many opportunities for gardeners to go red, white and blue this summer.

NATIONAL PRIDE: The Diamond Jubilee and the 2012 Olympic Games give gardeners two great opportunities to show off their colours.

I have just recently sold my property with CXG after it was on the market with two other agents for a year and a half with no interest!

Andy has been great from start to finish and keeping me updated every step of the way, even on his day off! He went above and beyond the call of an agent and I can't thank him enough!

Camaro ready to muscle in Cambridge Saab holds steady

“BUCKINGHAM & Stanley’s Cambridge Saab is 100 per cent committed to staying with the Saab brand, not only in the service and repair but also in the sale of approved used Saab cars for as long as we can,” Cambridge Saab general manager James Howarth says, writes Mike Scialom.

The commitment to the Swedish marque comes at the same time as the formation of a new company, Saab Automobile Parts UK Ltd, was announced. The new firm is committed to providing new and used Saab’s with the parts and advice that Saab owners would expect to ensure their wheels stay on the road.

Saab Parts UK was formed on January 1, and Harston-based Cambridge Saab, which is woned by Buckingham & Stanley, is one of the 87 authorised UK dealer network.

“Following the sad demise of Saab Great Britain Ltd at the end of last year, Saab Parts UK was set up to continue to provide a parts and customer care facility for the 188,000 Saabs that are on UK roads,” said Corin Richards, managing director of Saab Parts UK. “With a dedicated network of Saab authorised repairers covering the whole of the UK and the Channel Islands, Saab owners can be reassured that their vehicle will still be looked after by experienced and trained Saab technicians and only genuine Saab parts will be used.

“Saab Parts UK has now established itself with its first successful month of trading and coupled with the on-going partnership from the network will continue to provide high quality vehicle care. Moving forwards, we will continue to expand our customer programmes offering added value and we warmly welcome new members to the Saab Service Club.”

Reassuring driver mobility, Saab AA Roadside Assistance remains in place and active for all Saabs registered new in the UK before 29 November, 2011 and covering the vehicle for three years.

Saab Parts UK, in collaboration with the Saab authorised repairer network, is continuing to offer the Saab Service Club for the benefit of current owners. With close to 15,000 members, the Service Club is now being extended to all Saab drivers irrespective of vehicle age. The loyalty scheme is free to join and provides a host of exclusive benefits to members including free visual health checks and discounts on parts, servicing and accessories. Owners can register with the Service Club via the Saab web-site at www.saab.co.uk.

The developments mean that Cambridge Saab, as one of Saab Parts UK’s dealerships, offers servicing using genuine Saab parts covered by a two-year warranty and continues to sell attractively priced Saab new and used cars.

“We for our part are enjoying an Indian summer from a resurgence of interest in the brand and selling a steady number of used Saab cars,” Howarth added, “with many Saab owners seeking to upgrade and take the last chance to buy one of the last nearly new Saabs. All are sold with a dealer guarantee that looks to provide the confidence of the original manufacturers warranty.”

Further details on new and used Saabs, plus servicing and repair options are available from Cambridge Saab on (01223) 873660 or go to www.cambridgesaab.co.uk.

Chevrolet’s all-time great Detroit sports car treat due

THERE ain’t no muscle like Detroit muscle, and British fans of the modern incarnation of one of the greatest muscle cars of all time – the Camaro – can now place orders at local dealer Cambridge Chevrolet.

Priced at £34,995 for the Coupe or £39,995 for the soft-top Convertible model, the new Camaro displays all of the attributes that made the original sports cars famous – great performance, musclebound looks and an eagle eye on value for money.

In addition to the standard models, for a limited time only, the 2012 45th anniversary Camaro, finished in striking Carbon Flash Black with bespoke red and silver anniversary stripes, will also be available from Cambridge Chevrolet at its Trumpington showroom.

Featuring dark silver 20-inch alloys, a unique 45th anniversary leather interior with red, white and blue stitching and a one-off white-backed instrument panel, it’s priced at £36,495 for the Coupe or £41,495 for the Convertible.

“We’re really excited to be introducing such an iconic car to the area and I for one cannot wait to see the Camaro cruising the streets of Cambridge,” Luke Gordon, franchise manager at Cambridge Chevrolet, said.

All models come with a six-speed manual gearbox, or are available with a six-speed automatic transmission as an option.

The V8 engine can take you from 0-62mph between 5.2 seconds (manual Coupe) and 5.6 seconds (auto Convertible), while all Camaros have an electronically limited top speed of 155mph.

Customers wishing to order a Camaro can now do so, with the first cars arriving at Cambridge Chevrolet in late spring.

Call (01223) 873673 or go to www.cambridgechevrolet.co.uk for additional information.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

Whiting stars as Wrattling battle back

KC Cougars 3 West Wrattling 4 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-16A

A STAGGERING comeback after a nightmare opening earned West Wrattling the points.

A combination of poor defending and smart finishing left the visitors 3-0 behind after just 15 minutes.

But man-of-the-match Jack Whiting reduced the arrears on 23 minutes and Zak Ollington scored a stunning goal to make it 3-2 just before the break.

Within a minute of the restart they were level, Josh Free firing home, and Sam Langham coolly slotted in the winner after Whiting slipped a pass to him after his original shot had been blocked.

However, it needed a fine save from Joe Harrington to stop Cougars from salvaging a point.

West Wrattling 8 Fulbourn Falcons 2 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

EARLE Lambert led the Wrattling goal rampage with a hat-trick.

The 2-2 draw in the reverse fixture became a distant memory as the home side's passing and movement reaped dividends. Highlight of Lambert's treble came when he rounded three defenders before sliding the ball past the keeper.

The other goals came from Ben Weedon (2), Harry Wilson, skipper Liam Mitchell and Jack Ferguson, his first for the club. Haverhill Rovers 6 Needingworth 1 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

BILLY Hemmings hammered their goal of the season so far and Sam Goodwin completed a hat-trick as Rovers battled to the points.

After a long lay-off, and able to field just 11 players, Rovers made a stuttering start, missing early chances before Goodwin fired in the first two goals. Hemmings made it 3-0 – volleying a goal-kick straight back over the keeper – and as they turned the screw, Cameron Kicks hit the post and the home side had three goals chalked off for marginal offside decisions.

However, James Sams and Kicks did make goals count before Goodwin completed his tally.

Priory Parkside 1 Kedington 7 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B

TY Alleyne slammed four goals as Kedington shrugged aside their winter lay-off with a blistering first-half performance.

The prolific striker struck an early goal as the visitors maintained their onslaught throughout the half to turn-around 5-1 ahead.

The second half was played at a slightly lower tempo as Kedington started to feel the effects of the opening half, but they never looked in any danger.

Ellis Wiffen struck twice and Cameron Larkin rounded off the rout.

West Wrattling 1 Great Bardfield 1 BM Kempton 9v9 League, under-12 WEST Wrattling failed to find their fluency and make the most of their chances as they maintained their unbeaten run this year.

The two-week lay-off did Wrattling few favours and Bardfield started well, exploiting gaps and taking a deserved, if fortunate, lead when keeper Charlie Mitchison tipped a fierce shot on to the underside of the bar but saw the ball bounce over the line.

A round of substitutions seemed to stir Wrattling and, although Keirnan Harding had to clear off the line and Michison needed to make another smart stop, the home side only seemed to hit their stride once William Coleman hammered the equaliser.

LEWIS Cracknell has his sights set on a top-three finish as he prepares for a second season in the British Drift Championship.

The Haverhill driver made an impressive debut last year, finishing 10th in the semi-pro class out of 32 competitors.

He is now busy rebuilding his Nissan 200SX and hopes with more backing for 2012 he will be able to make a real impression at the top of the standings.

"I'm aiming for top three," he said. "I'd love to win it, but it would be great if I could win a couple of rounds."

The British Drift Championship is still a growing sport in the country. Unlike other forms of motorsport, the Drift Championship does not involve actual racing, but drivers are instead judged on their performances as they drift around a circuit.

Markers are placed on the bends and the closer a driver gets to those markers, the higher they score, with performances judged on speed, angle and line.

"In a way it's like an extreme sport," said Cracknell.

"It's almost more like skateboarding than other forms of motorsport. It sounds simple but when you're doing 70 to 80mph in a sideways car it's quite tricky."

Cracknell has honed his skill in building and tuning race cars while working at Taylors Motorsport in Haverhill but believes the extra backing would be a big help in covering tyre costs and travelling expenses.

"I've pretty much got the building of the car covered. The biggest cost goes on tyres. You put a lot of wear on them when you're drifting and a brand new set can be used in 20 minutes," he said.

Betts praise as Harrington answers SOS

Haverhill Rov 5 FC Clacton 2
Ridgeons League, Premier Division

JOE Harrington was thrust into the limelight and finished on the winning side as Haverhill thumped Clacton 5-2 at the New Croft.

With limited options between the posts, Rovers manager Peter Betts handed the gloves to 16-year-old goalkeeper Harrington, and he did not disappoint.

Stuart Kingham, Dan Cornwell and substitute Alex O'Leary all scored to put the hosts in control, before two goals gave the away side some hope.

However, it was a false dawn as Joe Harvey and Craig Calver notched to ensure teenager Harrington had a memorable afternoon.

"We had three or four keepers out, so we blooded Joe from our youth set-up and he did well," said Betts. "It was a great experience for him."

"We know he's got a bright future because he's done really well in the youth system, and it's great for the other lads to see him get an opportunity like that."

"We're trying to attract the best local players around and I think that's what separates us from other clubs."

"We don't just bring in people on loan. We had a league game and we put our faith in a 16-year-old keeper."

Harrington's introduction to the game was a tentative attempt to get a corner, which was eventually cleared off the line by Kingham.

But Rovers were already starting to get the upper-hand and they took the lead on 13 minutes when Kingham played a 1-2 with Dan Cornwell on the edge of the Clacton box and then coolly fired past Joe Playle.

Conditions worsened dramatically as heavy rain deluged the New Croft, but nothing could prevent Greg Strong from running fully 50 yards though the Clacton defence after 33 minutes before his shot was palmed on to the post by Playle. However, Cornwell was on hand to double the lead.

The third goal did not arrive until the 68th minute, when Joe Harvey and Calver set up O'Leary to volley home, and the game appeared to be up for Clacton.

However, first James Dunkley and then Aaron Condon pulled the score back to 3-2 to raise the tension around the ground.

However a mix-up between Clacton centre-back Matt Cripps and Playle left Harvey with both the ball and an open goal with six minutes left.

And as the game moved into injury time, clever interplay between Calver and O'Leary left the former free at the edge of the box to fire under the Clacton 'keeper.

Rovers are at rock-bottom Great Yarmouth on Saturday.

Wratting off the pace

West Wrattling 1 Brampton 3
Kershaw League, Premier Division

STUART Harris struck twice as Wrattling lacked a cutting edge after two weeks off.

Harris scored with a penalty around the half-hour mark after Liam Hemmings was fouled by Adam Murphy. Jermaine Olney equalised but Simon Linnell restored the visitors' advantage just before the interval and Harris settled matters around the hour. Brampton manager Adam Burnley said: "That was without doubt one of our best performances of the season."

But Brian Pilgrim, the Wrattling joint-boss, said: "I don't think the lay-off has done us much good and they were far sharper than us in all areas. They fought harder, were quicker to the ball and seemed to want it more than us."
